

GOVERNOR'S FAITH AND COMMUNITY BASED INITIATIVE

Florida's Faith and Community Leaders:

I hope this email finds you doing well. My name is Erik Dellenback and I was recently appointed by Governor Ron DeSantis to oversee his Faith and Community Based Initiative for the State of Florida. Soon you will be receiving an official letter which will provide more information on the Governor's Faith and Community Based Initiative. At the present time, however, I am reaching out to you to begin determining how we can all come together as one community to serve the State of Florida in this critical time of need.

We know that you and your teams have the COVID-19 worldwide pandemic at the top of your minds. It is comforting, and reassuring, to also know that faith and community organizations across the state are actively engaged in serving your communities at a high capacity right now and for that, we are so thankful.

To better assist you in the important work you are already doing for your communities and to prepare us all for what's ahead, we would like to open a line of communication with you. We want to hear which vulnerable populations you serve and continue to share more information on COVID-19 through the information provided below.
